GMA 7 probes sexual harassment complaint

By Joaquin L. Andrade

IF IT WAS JUST A "PLEASANT, CASUAL gesture" by a top executive of a GMA television network subsidiary, then why was the 23-year-old object of his attentions so outraged that she quit her job and sought to sue him for sexual harassment? Is the network or any of its subsidiaries?

Foreign chambers bullied

Enrile tells them off, 'Get out of the country'

By Michael Lee Uhal

THE JOINT FOREIGN CHAMBERS of Commerce in the Philippines was yesterday told by Sen. Juan Ponce Enrile to leave the country if it did not like the way business was done here.

Filled by the refusal of Hubert D'Aboville, spokesperson of the group and president of the European Chamber of Commerce, to answer certain questions at a hearing by the Senate committee on energy, Enrile said the foreign businessmen should "get out of the country if you can't live with us."

The Joint Foreign Chambers (JFC)—which represents businesses from the United States, Australia, New Zealand, Canada, Japan, Europe and Korea—later apologized to the committee for earlier writing a letter to President Macapagal-Arroyo opposing amendments to the Electric Power Industry Reform Act (EPIRA).

Sen. Miriam Defensor Santiago, the committee chair, said the May 27 letter was "precipitous," a breach of protocol and an undue interference in the workings of a co-

MALACANANG'S "MERCEDES" have started a "smear campaign" against former Speaker Juan Ponce Enrile and members of his family even before he can testify on the scandal-ridden National Broadband Network deal with China's ZTE Corp., according to the Philippine law maker himself.

The senator yesterday issued a statement in reaction to a three-page advertisement that appeared in the Disenchantment yesterday. The ad, in the form of an open letter to the senator, detailed a purported plan to murder Enrile and his family but has yet to be scheduled testimony in the Senate inquiry into the scrapped NBN contract.

Cheaper meds bill now law effective Sept.

By Christine O. Amabile and Kristine L. Alave

ROXAS: Cause for celebration

WITH THE SIGHING INTO LAW of the cheaper medicines bill yesterday, President Macapagal-Arroyo said that her administration had completed the legislative reform needed to bring affordable medicines to the people.

The President said the University Accessible Chamber and Quality Medicines Act of 2008, or Republic Act No. 9502, served to complete the 20-year-old Consumer Law, which requires doctors to write on their prescriptions both the brand and generic names of the drugs they prescribe.

She signed the new law at the Laguna Provincial Hospital in Sta. Cruz, Laguna, because this was where she launched the half-price medicines program in 2001, a Palace statement said.

The new law, which extends certain provisions of those laws—the Intellectual Property Code, the Generic Act and the Pharmacy Law—aims to cut the cost of medicines in the country which has among the priciest pharmaceuticals in Asia.

It prohibits new patents based only on newly discovered uses of a known drug and allows local companies to test, produce and register generic versions of patented drugs so they can be sold immediately at low prices.

It also gives the President the power to put price ceilings on various drugs and strengthen the government's drug regulatory bureau.

Full implementation will start in September after the Department of Health develops the law's implementing rules and regulations.

The passage of the new law was a "cause for celebration because it was a tough battle to even have this law passed," said Sen. Manuel Ro-

Int'l media watchdog slams libel conviction

AN INTERNATIONAL MEDIA watchdog slammed the price increase imposed on Nerys Gatch-Olivares after she filed a petition of libel against President Macapagal-Arroyo's former lawyer, saying Friday that the case against her was "absurd."

The Makati Regional Trial Court on Thursday sentenced Olivares, editor in chief and publisher of The Daily Inquirer, to more than two years in prison and ordered her to pay damages to Atty. Villanueva and his law firm CVC Law.

The libel suit was an offshoot of an article in the Tribune depicting with the law firm's president as a man who was the Philippine industry.

The law firm argued that the story was "baseless and malicious" in reputation. Judge Wilfredo Dominguez found the article "defamatory" and "intentional."

Don't focus only on metro, UN food exec warns gov't

By Jocelyn K. Uy

DON'T GET FOCUSED ON Metro Manila, the government was reminded yesterday.

The food crisis is not purely a Manila problem. The poor in Mindanao and elsewhere in the country are equally struggling with high food prices.

"It is important to realize that the food crisis is not only a Manila phenomenon," Country Director Valerie Guzman of the UN World Food Program Philippines told reporters.

She pointed out that the substandard sale of MFA rice was focused only in Metro Manila, depriving the poor in Mindanao and other areas of the country of the cheap staple.

This was the message also pointing by Guzman during her visit to a warehouse of the National Food Authority on Visayas Avenue in Cebu City.

There the new people enduring long queues and the heat of the sun just to get inside an MFA warehouse—and buy rice at P18.25 per kilo.

Security guards had to shoot away people blocking the warehouse gates to allow the entry of trucks loaded with sacks of the much-in-demand rice variety.

Guamant and his head to come to the capital from "vulnerable" Mindanao—where most of the MFP projects in the Philippines are located—in order to see for himself how the distribution system was working.

He said the government's sale of cheap rice to poor families in Mindanao, in the hands of many poor residents of the region.

No. 3 al-Qaida leader seeks martyrdom

QUINTANARROO, MEX.—The second-in-command of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks said he welcomed martyrdom in US hands, as he and two confederates asked to be tried for war crimes without the benefit of lawyers.

Thursday's arraignment in this isolated US Navy base marked the first time that Khalid Sheikh Mohammed, the former No. 3 leader of al-Qaida, was seen since he was captured in Pakistan in 2003.

Mohammed said he would willingly being executed after the judge warned him he faced the death penalty if convicted of conspiring the attacks on America.

"Yes, this is what I wish, to be a martyr for a long time," Mohammed said. "I wish, God willing, have this legacy."

Mohammed wore dark-tinted prison-issue glasses, a turban and a bushy gray beard, and was noticeably thinner—on such change from the stoutly man with disheveled hair, unshaven face and T-shirt in the widely distributed photograph after his capture in Pakistan. He looked older than his 45 years.

One of the defense attorneys he spared, David Nevin, later told the Associated Press that he would attempt to meet with Mohammed to hear him out and see his side.

THIRD: Khalid Sheikh Mohammed has not been seen since his capture in Pakistan in 2003 and Thursday.

Power dole ready in metro

By Christine G. Arellano

BEGGINING YESTERDAY, SMALL electricity users from who constitute 138 thousand households in Metro Manila could go to various Landbank of the Philippines branches to avail themselves of the one-time P100 government subsidy for power, according to Press Secretary Ignacia Reyes.

Reyes said all the consumers, more commonly known as lifeline users, have to document their May electric billing statements and valid identification card in the Landbank offices.

He told reporters that Landbank and the Department of Social Welfare and Development agreed Thursday a memorandum of agreement on the government's role after they completed the guidelines for implementing the P1-billion power subsidy that will benefit from million lifeline users nationwide.

President Municipal Councils launched the subsidy program for the poor early this week and directed officials to start implementing the program in Metro Manila first.

Over one million Manila users living in the Metro Manila Electric Co. (Meralco) service area will be benefited.

"Half a billion pesos has been allocated to Landbank. Initially will start releasing the Manila users through the following branches—Bancada (Makati), Manila Cathedral, Intramuros (Manila), Pasay and Marikina (Quezon City) and Capital Bridge," Reyes said.

He said the DSWD will announce in the coming days which other Landbank branches will be releasing the subsidy next.

In a letter to President Arroyo, General said subsidies for the rest of Metro Manila residents will be given out on the last three weekends of June—the June 28th and 29th, 30th and 1st, and 2nd and 3rd, and 4th and 5th—with Landbank and DSWD personnel going directly to the households.

WORLD LEADERS: At a UN summit endorsed an ambitious strategy to combat a food crisis that is costing millions and threatening to push up to a billion people across the globe into hunger.

Delegates from 181 countries pledged Thursday to reduce trade barriers and boost agricultural production to combat rising food prices, but some nations and groups announced more concrete measures will be needed.

After three days of wrangling, delegates at the Rome-based UN World Food Summit, approved a declaration pledging to ease the suffering caused by rising food prices and drop of investment in agriculture.

"We are now faced with the international community needs to take urgent and coordinated action to combat the negative impact of rising prices on the world's most vulnerable countries and populations," the declaration said.

The summit—which cost more than $1 billion—pledged—through a balance on the combined action of market, government, "challenges and opportunities" to bring food to the table.

Small farmers

The declaration called for help to help small farmers, farmers in poor countries who need seed, fertilizer and animal feed to grow the upsurge in planting season.

UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon had told the summit that Japan, Brazil and other nations must also be involved in efforts to bring food to the table and market, including prices.

"The summit—which cost more than $1 billion—pledged—through a balance on the combined action of market, government, "challenges and opportunities" to bring food to the table.

Food crisis

The summit also called for the government to support "initiatives of support" to ensure that countries—yet not just—get appropriate food aid.

ARE YOU SURE ABOUT YOUR BOTTLED WATER?

Nowadays, typhoid, amoebiasis and other water-borne diseases are becoming common occurrences throughout the country. Given this, we must take the necessary precautionary measures especially when it comes to the water that we drink.

The Beverage Industry Association of the Philippines (BIAP) is constantly working to ensure the safety and well being of the Filipino consumer. To this end, the association is conducting this campaign to provide the following information to consumers about bottled water.

Things to remember when patronizing or buying bottled water.

- Buy your bottled water only from authorized dealers and retailers.
- Make it a habit to check the cap and make sure that it has not been tampered with or compromised in any way (refer to photos below to know if the bottled water you are buying has been tampered with).
- Read and understand the text printed on the label for more information on ensuring the safety and quality of the bottled water.
- Dispose plastic containers properly.

The association would also like to inform the public that refilling branded plastic bottle containers and selling them bearing their original labels, not the re-filler's label, constitutes deception which is punishable under the law. This is a form of fraud aimed at deceiving consumers and anyone caught committing this act will be prosecuted.

Let us all work together to ensure the safety and well being of our community. If you have doubts about the bottled water you have purchased or if you have information about individuals or institutions engaged in the fraudulent practice cited above, call BIAP through 813-2653 (Metro Manila) or 1800-1888-2653 (Provincial) or text to 0917-689-9111.

Eastern Visayas heritage lives on

By Vienna S. Laine
Hilagay, Leyte

THE PEOPLE OF EASTERN Visayas are generally family-loving and peaceful but once oppressed, would fight back, says a Filipino anthropologist.

The Waray, as people from Eastern Visayas are popularly known, have in fact, through generations, remained deeply rooted to their culture, according to Hilagay. Also, an anthropologist who has taught for over 20 years at the University of the Philippines in Diliman, Quezon City.

Also, a former writer who has traveled for many years in various places in Mindanao and the Visayas, notes that the traditional Waray community dance called "taron" or "taron" is still being performed during weddings, birthdays and other special gatherings.

"Waray is really a beautiful dance... very lively and energetic. It is performed in a traditional gathering," he says.

Living in the Waray region is "not only satisfying but also enjoyable," says Hilagay, referring to the history of the region. "Waray" (pronounced "waray") and "Waray" (pronounced "waray") are the two main dialects of the Waray people. Bush misused Iraq intel to overstate case for war, says US Senate

WASHINGTON—US PRESIDENT GEORGE W. BUSH AND HIS TOP POLICYMAKERS misused Saddam Hussein's links to terrorists and ignored doubts among intelligence agencies about Iraq's arms programs as they made a case for war, the Senate intelligence committee reported on Thursday.

The report shows an administration that "let the sales to war overpromise," said the committee's Democratic chair, Sen. John Edwards, of North Carolina. Several Republicans on the committee pointed to findings in the report as a "wake-up call."

The committee studied major speeches by Bush, Vice President Dick Cheney and others of Bush in advance of the 2003 invasion of Iraq in March 2003, and compared his assertions with intelligence available at the time.

Intelligence that Iraq had no warhead by al-Qaida was wrong and unsupported by intelligence, the report said.

BUSH

False assertions

It said that Bush's and Cheney's assertions that Saddam was prepared to join terrorist groups with weapons of mass destruction for attacks on the United States contradicted available intelligence.

Saddam himself had a strong aversion to a US public, still reeling after 9/11 Sept. 11, 2001 attacks on the United States. Public showed that many Americans believed Iraq posed a risk to the attacks, even long after Bush announced in September 2001 that there was no evidence Saddam was involved.

The report also said administration press statements on Iraq's weapons programs were based on a more conservative view of US intelligence, but officials failed to either correct or deny such findings, which proved wrong.

The long-delayed Senate study suggested previous reports and findings that the administration's main case for war—that Iraq had weapons of mass destruction and was spreading them to terrorists—were inaccurate and deeply flawed.

"The president and his advisors conducted a reckless public campaign in the aftermath of the Sept. 11 attacks and the war against al-Qaida as a justification for overthrowing Saddam Hussein," Edwards said.

"Representing to the American people that the war had no operational purpose and posed a single, unambiguous threat was fundamentally misleading and led the nation to war on false pretenses."

Revealed statements

A statement in Congress by then-Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld that the Iraq government had weapons of mass destruction facilities underground was not backed up by intelligence information, the report said. (Associated Press, Ben Wicks of Oregon said Rumsfeld's comments should be investigated further, but he dropped that of saying a national probe.)

The committee voted 10-8 to approve the report, with two Republican lawmakers supporting it. Sen. Christopher Bond of Missouri and then other Republican panel members denounced the study as an attack on Bush.

"The committee took itself over again, concerned with political posturing," the Republicans said. The other supporters of the report "are not entitled to a position on this."

While House speaker Nancy Pelosi said, "We had the intelligence that we had, but it's better, but it was wrong. We certainly regret that and we've taken measures to fix it."

US public opinion on the war, supportive at first, has waned, contributing to a drop in Bush's popularity.

The writer is likely to be a key issue in the November presidential election between McCain, John McCain, who supports the war, and Democratic Barack Obama, who has opposed the war since the start and says he would aim to pull US troops out within 18 months of taking office in January 2009.

The administration's record in seeking to use the Iraq war also has been that by critics of Bush's tough policy on Iraq.

They accuse Bush of oversteering the potential of intelligence programs to justify the war, and of using it to justify the war.

A secret report by the committee issued the administration's handling of December 2001 Senate intelligence committee officials and intelligence information, which drew into the issue. It said administration officials failed to share intelligence from the meeting, which Bush later told Democrats in "transmission studies" for other intelligence agencies.

GO PLACES WITH HP MINI

Manila, Philippines, May 30, 2006 – HP Philippines has unveiled its smallest and lightest fully-functional notebook PC called HP Mini-Note at a hip cocktail party held at Bonifacio High Street, Fort Global City.

"We officially welcome the HP Mini Note in the Philippines," said Bernadette Nascion, General Manager, Personal Systems Group, HP Philippines. "The HP Mini-Note is a stylish, ultra-portable notebook PC that any mobile Filipino can bring anywhere he wants. It is small and lightweight yet loaded with functions of a normal-sized notebook."

Hosted by Amanda Guffin and Brad Tarver, the event was highlighted by models coming out of a mini Camis and taking out the HP Mini-Note from their pockets. Among the celebrities who joined the fun in welcoming the HP Mini-Note in the country were Sports Unlimited host Mary Nelson, high society's butterfly Tessa Prieto Valdez, young chef Tristan Encarnacion, and youth columnist Patricia Evangelista, who also shared their own experiences in using the HP Mini-Note.

"The HP Mini-Note is a multi-tasking gadget for this year. This is the first 'fully-functional' mini notebook that only weighs 1.19 kg with an 8.9" display. It is handy and stylish because it is designed in brushed aluminum, bumper-proof casing. Moreover, it features a full-sized QWERTY keyboard that no other mini notebook has," said Jan Reyes, Market Development Manager for Notebooks, Personal Systems Group, HP Philippines.

As part of the welcome sales for the HP Mini-Note PC in the Philippines, HP will be launching a Mini Tour in different colleges and universities to showcase this latest must-have gadget. To know more about the HP Mini-Note, a special microsite will also be made available at www.MiniNotePhilippines.com.ph. Starting June 5, users will have a chance to win the HP Mini-Note by writing an essay on the topic "Where Do You Want To Go With Your HP Mini-Note?"

Now, the "mini" revolution has just begun!

Yap urges swift action on world food security

By Amy R. Nunez

AGRICULTURE SECRETARY ANTON C. Yap welcomed Senate senators' commitment from Senate and House lawmakers to support the bill, but he also urged swift action to reverse the decline of food production and ensure the security of food supply.

In his speech before the plenary session of the High Level Conference on World Food Security, Yap said such pledges have given the Philippines "much hope, considering that we are now in a position to ensure the security of food supply."

He stressed that three public investments have given the country positive returns, as average per-hectare yield increased from 1.5 to 2.5 tons per hectare.

Yap noted that the primary issue concerning the Philippines and the rest of the world is the urgency of being able to deliver the new food commitments to that farmers can buy fertilizer and seeds, and enjoy the benefits of agricultural business like irrigation.

"For us to realize that the world is vulnerable and not interested in their own or our world, but we actually begging for our own, now," Yap said.

Yap said that while contributions to help the World Food Program were both "valuable and meaningful," the pledges still could not be taken as a guarantee that governments would undertake measures to assist off-farm farmers in the price of staples and crops.

Thus, he said, while the world would need to take to produce in efforts to assist farmers for production, there must be a mechanism to match the critical input of food production to help food producers with the demand of food production.

"The idea has come for us to establish a food reserve," Yap said.

He said the proposed reserve will have to be run by an agency of the United Nations, which would ensure a "top-priority" process in providing access to food production.

Under the Philippine proposal, the food reserve would serve as a stabilizing mechanism to moderate seasonal price fluctuations and would promote and deliver a good food.

Pre-need code virtually passed, says Angara

By Michelle V. Nunez

A LAW THAT WOULD PROVIDE THE legal framework for regulating the pre-need industry—some members of which have been gripped by liquidity crisis, keeping them from servicing policyholders—is expected to take effect soon.

Sen. Eduardo Angara, chief of the Senate committee on banks and financial institutions, said in a statement that the bill, entitled the Pre-need Code of 2007, would be virtually passed after it got the backing of legislators.

"After law number 10,000,000, the Pre-need Code is as good as passed," Angara said in a statement.

The new legislation agreed to pass the bill, and any new proposals for its amended contents, Angara said.

The business community had been avoiding the enactment of the bill, which it said was key to preventing problems that had seen the pre-need industry a few years back. The bill is expected to help in efforts to develop the country's capital market.

Under the Pre-need Code, industry members will be regulated by the Securities and Exchange Commission. Pre-need firms will also be required to regularly submit a report on their financial standing and their fund contributions.

New generic drug maker promises to play active role

By Charles E. Stablar

FOR A GENERIC DRUG TO BE SAFE, effective and approved for marketing, manufacturers must be able to prove that the product has the same chemical structure as the same active ingredients as part of the original, patented drug. The generic drug must be able to show that its structure is equivalent to that of the original, patented drug in terms of safety, efficacy, quality, strength, purity, and other characteristics.

"This is what we call as 'bioequivalence.' This is important because the generic drug must be able to show that its structure is equivalent to that of the original, patented drug in terms of safety, efficacy, quality, strength, purity, and other characteristics."

Wendy P. Macmillan is the general manager of health-care.

Address health needs

From its 22 countries through Europe, Asia, South America and Africa, the company is set to address the health needs of people in these regions.

"Since the company develops, manufactures and markets generic drugs following the standards of the European Union, its products are among the best in the world."

quality in terms of product efficacy and safety (bioequivalence).

Stablar also explained that the entry of companies like Winthrop in the local market would improve the image of generic drugs as they are perceived as cheap but unreliable.

Fundamental

"Generic medicines is fundamental for all individuals to achieve their right to health. And we should ensure that poor people have access to quality medicines. This is why the Generic Drug Act of 1988 was passed and why the recently Amended Generic and Quality Medicines Act of 2006 was signed into law."

She added that the proposed measure while not perfect should be strong enough to bring down prices of medicines through free competition and better access to affordable brands.

The Quality Medicines Act of 2006 is also set to amend the Intellectual Property Code to allow, among others, parallel importation of patented medicines from other countries where they are more affordable.

Allowed

Once approved, local generic firms will be allowed to test, produce and register their generic versions of patented drugs, as these could considerably cut down the price of the original.

The forthcoming law, which was originally filed three years ago, will also allow the government to sue patented drug when the public health is at risk.

"We are indeed in a difficult position in terms of medicines in the Philippines and our company is proud to play a part in the development," said Carlos Rodriguez, general manager and president of local branch.

'Knowing our numbers' can save your life

HUMANS ARE IMPORTANT

As young kids, we are taught to memorize our names, addresses, and phone numbers. Just in case we get lost and need to find our way home, or, as adults, members of the social security system. It's important to know our numbers, not just in our names but in our health as well.

Today, across the globe, there is a growing concern to get people to "know your numbers"—not just their weight and height, but more importantly their blood pressure, cholesterol and blood sugar levels.

Experts have found that maintaining blood pressure levels lower than 120/80 mm Hg can help in lowering the risk of stroke and heart attack, while high cholesterol levels can lead to heart disease. The ideal blood cholesterol level is < 200 mg/dL, LDL "bad" cholesterol is < 100 mg/dL, HDL "good" cholesterol is > 40 mg/dL, and triglycerides are < 150 mg/dL.

The only diet that can help the management of the disease is the diet that is low in fat, low in sugar, and low in calories. It is also important to exercise regularly and to maintain a healthy weight.

It is also important to know your numbers, not just in our names but in our health as well. It is important to know your numbers, not just in our names but in our health as well.

Angelo Dela Cruz

The goal is hypertension control is to keep blood pressure levels lower than 120/80 mm Hg. Uncontrolled hypertension can result in stroke, heart failure, kidney failure and other complications. Knowing if a person's blood pressure is under control can also be helpful in maintaining, preventing or delaying disease.

In the Philippines, it has been found that 8 out of 10 hypertension cases are undiagnosed. It is important to know your numbers, not just in our names but in our health as well.

Sad children sometimes learn better

POPE JOHN'S COLLEGE has a new program that helps children learn better. It is a program that helps children learn better.

In the June issue of the journal Developmental Science, Simon Baron-Cohen and his colleagues report the results of a study that looked at the ability of children to learn better.

The study found that children who are sad or angry learn better than children who are happy or calm. This is because children who are sad or angry are more motivated to learn.

Pag-Ibig's reduced rates empower more homebuyers

By Charles L. Nelson

THERE'S NO QUESTION that buying a house these days has its share of risks, especially now that cost of living has increased faster than what an average Filipino family could earn.

But for the country's developers, this is the right time for one to make a move as there are more developments in the industry that will enable them to buy their own home.

"Vice President and commercial Pag-Ibig Chair Noli de Castro has announced an initiative. Builders were undertaking to make housing more accessible and affordable for families," said Ricardo Abano, president of subdivision and housing developers association.

ISDA is the country's largest association of real estate developers with more than 300 members nationwide.

More Pag-Ibig members

Abano reported that with the recent guidelines from Pag-Ibig, the country's single largest housing loan provider, ISDA's mem-

Contemporary urban style highlights 2-bedroom model unit of Cypress Towers

TWO NEW MODEL UNITS THAT will showcase the Cypress Tower lifestyle were recently unveiled by H&M Architects, the high-rise consultancy in Taipei. This latest development coincides with the imminent delivery of the new building in October this year for resident units buyers looking to take advantage of their new address.

A TWO-BEDROOM, 48-sq-m unit, was designed for every young couple yearning to own a family of their own.

Modern contemporary
The first model unit, a two-bedroom, 48-square-meter unit, is designed for a young couple yearning to own a family of their own. This unit has the look and feel of a modern contemporary style, with clean lines and a neutral color palette.

"We came up with a concept for a modern contemporary style either be a newly-wed couple or a young family," says the architect. "The unit is designed to be a modern contemporary style, with clean lines and a neutral color palette. meat, sausage, chicken, and pork. In the case of chicken, the meat is often marinated in a mixture of vinegar, oil, and spices before being cooked. Sausages are typically made from pork or beef, and are often served with a side of sauerkraut. Pork is often used in stews and soups, and is also a common ingredient in meat pies. The use of meat in German cuisine is a reflection of the country's agricultural heritage, and its importance in the diet has remained a constant throughout the centuries.

The Thai Paligaya Food Festival is cosponsored by Philippine Airlines. For reservations, please call Sheng-Lin Maayan Brown and Sue, Co-ordinators, at (802) 223-6024, or e-mail maayanbrown@aol.com.

*Comfort and convenience
at Navaland Hotel*

IN THE CITY OF INDIA, TEN EIGHTY-ONE years ago—on Sunday night at 8 o'clock, one hundred and twenty-five men and women were gathered in the hall of the Victoria Hotel, London, to witness the trial of a man named John Dillinger.

Conversations is experimental, starting with a cult-themed night at the ground floor. For the cyber-savvy right guys is the most important who want to track his business and financial affairs, the world wide web is just a click away through its well-ventilated, all-glass-on-wall of the computer-screen/television at the cult. But conversation is not just within the board, right across the board is to win in online, the digital e-Mail which is also owned and operated by Singapore Development Corp. The multi-ethnic the board game arena is primarily, board and technology, business and department store, a gallery and a place, store, a food festival, and a money-and-value exchange booth.

For the same time you are in search of a hotel that offers "casual and convenient" within your reach? Magnolia Hotel is the place to be. Tel. no. 334-8721 (11-474-6787) look for Margot Garcia and Manuel Padilla. For more information, visit the website at www.magnolia-hotel.com

AT THREE IN THE MORNING, after Session Road's nearby anniversary gig at Venue 196 in Baguio, 49 people boarded a bus at the Victory Lanes station in Cebu.

He were signed acts of musicians, artists, photographers, songwriters, actors and actresses (and in some cases a combination of two or three) and we were all headed for Baguio. The bus was loaded with trip souvenirs...artistic instruments, books and my camera, film, bottles and warmers, disks, CDs and other items of importance. But the most important of the bus was under seat number 14—a bag of 720 images that the members of Lemananila would use in their Las Vegas (Lemananila wall) at Vegas at the Session Building in Session Road.

Earth, wind, fire, water

The bus arrived at 11:30 a.m., and the immediate shock musicians took being together Sunday Vegas made me would not have been for days, while Tuesday arrived and the night's (the bus tickets, the schedule, the sleeping quarters, photographers signed up to participate. Almost all photographers submitted photos of each,

What made Gloria Romero a movie queen?

By Lynn S. Pineda

SINCE THE 1950s, the movie industry has been divided into two camps: those who are born great, those who achieve greatness, and those who are great because they are great. Gloria Romero, an actress who became a movie queen when she is rightfully recognized as the first Pinoy movie star.

Initially, there was nothing great about Gloria Romero. She was born in Manila, Philippines, where the young Gloria was raised. But when she was a small child, her mother died, and she was raised by her father, who was a small-time actor. Gloria was raised in a household where acting was a way of life. She was raised to be a star.

During Gloria's life, "being a star" was not just a dream, it was a reality. She was raised to be a star, and she became one.

ROMERO: That beauty is not just deep.

In 1950, when she was just 15, she was discovered by a talent scout. She was signed to a contract with a major studio. She became a movie star. She was the first Pinoy movie star. She was the first Pinoy movie queen.

THE SHOW IS, HOWEVER, IS ALL about youth worship—the younger, the better. But, every once in a while, a senior star puts up a great sexual production that turns out to be an astounding success, leaving male younger stars green with envy.

We, youth is continuously appealing and more interesting, but DON'T "wonder" about age and experience that is also intensely seductive and fascinating.

Successes story

The latest income story has been told by Kenneth Fuld and his interest-neutral spouse, "and now James and the Emperors of the Crystal Ball." Kees, who's at 57 in his late 60s, may be closer to "Crystal Ball" than we are, certainly so—and, in any case, current fare. She's 66, and is on hand to pick up whenever that there is.

LOVE, LAST THING, WE reviewed the Marvel Studios movie, "A Love Story" and made special mention of Marjor's exceptional portrayal of her former husband. We noted that he had "only a few scenes in the movie, but made all a photographer."

Facials are allowed! But Mark looked older than his actual age—which is never a good thing for an actor—and we agreed that he do something about his overdone hairline, which was the main reason why he registered as "maturely" on the credit union.

Special, "Every Man and Cowboy" is a surprisingly easy album to love in...though those who're familiar with the band's music will doubtless disagree with the "surprisingly" part.

We think of us who haven't actively listened to Tippett's music as a kind of band of handmen paid before, however, the group have recorded a commercially pleasing

4. background: Taperat, whose name essentially means "from the site of the Taperat" (a village in the area), is a village in the Taperat area. They were already pretty well known in their hometown before they got a wider audience a few years after their name changed.

The first thing you'll notice about Epesque is how right this record—like they've been plotting to gather the years and years. And their songs are solid numbers that trace poetic elements of ego, hardship, death, and a distant world.

The band is usually classified as mass, due to the generally platitudinous nature of mass. It was all of their songs, in fact, the sentimentality might almost have motivated the Harvard boys to the size of 30).

Paul Robeson crossed racial boundaries

DANCING THE FUTURE (IF A SON of an African-American elegantly during the early years of the 20th century, his father was a former slave who refused to give an education so he could "ground the Peas"). The equally notorious man grew up to be a scholar and graduated with distinction of his class in Rutgers University. He was, of course, a two-time All-American football player who gave his alma mater its legendary football greatness. His name: Paul Robeson, the greatest black performer of the 20th century.

REACTION: First black actor to portray Othello.

Holmes was an extraordinary performer. Composer Jerome Kern and lyricist Oscar Hammerstein II had only his basic command notes to mind when they composed "Of This World" for their musical adaptation of Edgar Fisher's novel, "Show Boat." His definitive interpretation of the song in its 1928 film version was show-stopping and unforgettable. Holmes' (Holl) scenes "Embrace Anne" and "My God's Children (Go Wings)" with Helen in mind.

Robeson also appeared in the Broadway production of Gershwin's American opera, "Porgy and Bess." He opened doors for other colored performers like Sam Robinson, Bill
